

MILES E. ROEDER

Miles Roeder has more than 15 years of experience working in immigration law, both practicing at boutique immigration firms as well as in the immigration practices of large, international law firms. Miles represents clients in securing nonimmigrant visas, including H-1B, L-1, E-3 and TN for foreign national employees, as well as in all aspects of the permanent residence and other processes, including PERM applications, I-140 immigrant visa petitions, adjustment of status, reentry permits, and naturalization. Having practiced in Silicon Valley for many years, Miles has extensive experience advising venture funded start-ups as they expand to multinational corporations, including mergers and acquisitions and intracompany transfer of employees from offices abroad.

Since 2015, he has spent a week each year volunteering at an Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) facility in Dilley, Texas, where he prepares recently arrived asylum seekers from El Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras for credible fear interviews and bond hearings.
